Director's Notes

This week our focus has shifted to the West; the romanticized, wild, untamed West, where the incessant heat and the loneliness of the wide desert expanses no doubt cause widespread hallucinations in local residents, prompting them to create folk tales involving superhuman cowboys who can fight bears, tame mountain lions, and toss 90 foot monsters half way across the world.

Stories of Pecos Bill and his various exploits come to us from the state of Texas, where everything, including the hats, boots, and folk tales, are oversized. Come to think of it, Pecos Bill is to superheroes what Pong was to videogames. In other words, Pecos Bill presages the various superheroes who have become an integral part of urban folklore. Join us on this ultra-retro superhero quest. Enjoy!
